Regionalization Online (CA)

Training Listing \(SearchCourses.asp?MODE=FINDRESULTS&csCategory=&csFrom=&csTo=&csKeyword=&csSortBy=1&clPageNumber=3\)

Regionalization, restructuring, partnership, working together, collaboration, consolidation are among the many terms used to define actions taken by some small utilities to pool resources and address common problems. Aging infrastructure, lack of volunteers, inability to manage/operate the utility, increasing regulatory requirements, and inability to pay competitive salaries are among the many factors driving utilities to band with other area utilities.

This workshop is designed for decision makers, operators, staff and those involved with the day-to-day operations of a utility.

Participants will learn and understand:

- Regionalization vs. consolidation
- Different governance structures
- Different ways to work together
- To determine when partnering is the right thing

Regionalization Workshop

March 13, 2019 • Clearlake, CA

Small water systems must meet the same regulations as large water systems without the economies of scale enjoyed by larger systems. Likewise, private well owners are stuck shouldering the operations and maintenance cost of their water equipment all on their own. The challenges of maintaining safe water quality, whether you are regulated or not, are not only expensive, but can be life threatening.

Join us for an open discussion of how regionalization of drinking water utilities and private well communities has allowed for increased sustainability. Examples will include all types of partnerships, formal and informal. We will also discuss funding resources for related projects. This free workshop is intended for all water system managers, board members, private well owners and anyone interested in learning more about how cooperative partnerships can support delivering safe drinking water.

This workshop qualifies for 0.6 CEUs.

Workshop agenda:

- Small system challenges
- Private well challenges
- Benefits of regionalization – what’s in it for me? ✓
- Barriers ✓
- Options for partnership ✓
- Case studies

Surviving the Chinese Sword

In 2018, China – the No. 1 destination for US recyclables – cracked down on imports of “recyclables” that contained trash, and had even stopped taking certain materials altogether. Referred to as the “Chinese Sword” this policy decision has driven up the cost of business for US recycling facilities, which in turn started significantly increasing fees they charge municipalities and assessing substantial penalties for contamination. These higher recycling costs have caused some cities to consider eliminating curbside recycling. During this session, participants will be provided with an update on the Chinese Sword, presented with case studies on how municipalities have offset higher recycling processing fees by decreasing collection costs through technology and routing efficiency, and strategies to reduce contamination in recyclables. 10-11 AM Central time

After attending this session, participants will be better able to:

- explain the benefits of automation in solid waste.
- recognize how automation can improve safety.
- identify strategies to reduce contamination in recyclables.

This program is sponsored by the APWA Solid Waste Committee.

Karen Luken, CEO, Economic Environmental Solutions International
